RAPA NUI LEGENDARY KING HOTU MATU

Among the mysteries and legends that surround Easter Island, one story forms the cornerstone of the Pasquan people: that of the legendary king of Rapa Nui, Hotu Matu.

According to legend, Hotu Matu'a was a Polynesian chief who lived on a remote island called Hiva. One day, he had a prophetic dream in which he saw an unknown land, rich and fertile, ready to welcome his people. On the advice of a priest called Haumaka, Hotu Matu'a decided to set off in search of this promised land. He had large pirogues built to carry his family, his warriors and the resources they needed to survive.

After a long and perilous journey across the Pacific Ocean, Hotu Matu'a and his companions finally arrived on the shores of Rapa Nui. They landed at Anakena, a white sandy beach, and established their first village there. Hotu Matu'a divided the island between his sons, creating the first tribes of Rapa Nui. Each tribe received a share of the island, and dynastic lines were formed, contributing to the diversification and development of the local culture.

Legend also has it that the first inhabitants of Rapa Nui brought with them advanced knowledge of navigation, agriculture and construction. They erected the famous Moais, monumental stone statues that still guard the island's mysteries today. The Moais were supposed to represent deified ancestors and were used to protect the tribes and ensure their prosperity.

Over time, conflicts broke out between the tribes, leading to internal wars and the degradation of the island's natural resources. The legend of Hotu Matu'a and the origin of Rapa Nui is thus also a tale of greatness and decline, highlighting the challenges faced by the island's inhabitants over the centuries.

Today, the descendants of the original inhabitants of Rapa Nui continue to perpetuate this legend through oral narratives, traditional dances and ceremonies. The legend of Hotu Matu'a is not only a story of discovery and colonisation, but also a testament to the resilience and creativity of a people who have adapted to an isolated and often hostile environment.

*Consuming raw or uncooked meats, poultry, seafood, shellfish or eggs may increase your risk of foodborne illness, especially if you have certain medical conditions. Silversea kitchens are not allergen free environments. Please inform our Crew if you have a food allergy or dietary restrictions.

HAND WASHING & HAND SANITIZING

Keeping hands clean through improved hand hygiene is one of the most important steps we can take to avoid getting sick and spreading germs to others. Many diseases and conditions are spread by not washing hands with soap and clean running water. Alcohol-based hand sanitizers can quickly reduce the number of germs on hands. Please use the hand sanitizers situated at the entrance door of the dining outlets and various locations around the ship.
