TAHUATA & ATUONA, FRENCH POLYNESIA

VAITAHU, TAHUATA ISLAND

Discover mesmerizing Tahuata and unveil all its secrets. Part of the Marquesas, this is the tiniest inhabited island of the archipelago, with only 700 inhabitants. This croissant-shaped piece of land was discovered in 1595 by Spanish navigator Alvaro de Mendana de Neira and has been a dreamy destination for many travelers since. Indeed, its spectacular and idyllic scenery, made of contrasts between impressive mountains and sandy beaches, would inspire every poet - and not only! How can't you be impressed admiring Meae Ufa, a 3,181-foot volcano, and the stunning twin bays Ivaiva Nui and Ivaiva Iti? The island is also nicknamed Monoi Island - thanks to the great quality of its tiaré oil, heritage of traditions, and secrets passed down generation to generation. Tahuata has a huge reputation across French Polynesia for another savoir-faire, its rich craftsmanship. The craftsmen excel at carving beautiful pieces, spears, puzzles, and dishes they produce on bone or rosewood.

ATUONA, HIVA OA ISLAND

The largest of the southern islands, Hiva Oa, the master pillar or final post of the "Great House" - which represents the Marquesan archipelago in the local mythology - has always been the rival of Nuku Hiva. The island is shaped like a seahorse and has a mountain range running southwest to northeast and the main peaks, Mt. Temetiu and Mt. Feani form a real wall around Atuona. Atuona, a peaceful little port at the head of Taaoa Bay, also known as Traitors Bay, has emerged from obscurity due to having had the privilege of being the final resting place of Paul Gauguin and of the singer Jacques Brel. In the village, the Gauguin Museum displays items related to the painter's stay there at the beginning of the century and has copies of his works.

THE PUREST WATER YOU CAN DRINK

IN OUR QUEST FOR THE PUREST WATER POSSIBLE, SILVERSEA HAS CHOSEN TO STOCK THIS SHIP WITH VERO WATER

We all know that, for the most part, our health and well-being depend on the quantity and the quality of the water we drink. Most filtration systems filter chlorine, aluminium, lead and parts of calcium. However, they still leave small polluting particles.

The Vero filtration system efficiently removes even the smallest particles, leaving behind a light, clean and refreshing taste enjoyed by all and is probably the purest water you can drink.
